and was a fresh-colored fellow. Soldlers Become Waiters

There in the Domhof Hotel I sat and their policy toward Russia, and what was waited on by Germans who until a few days ago were in the uni-form of their army, and who, a few months or weeks ago, had been fighting against us. It was difficult to believe. That man who handed me a table knife and waited upon me, with table knife and waited upon me, with a starched front, would have cut equipped could easily hold the railmy throat if we had met somewhere, we will say on the outskirte of Com.

The loss amounted to about $300. we will say, on the outskirts of Cam al, but today throat-cutting and cod-letting seem to belong to the nightmare that has passed and British and Germans pass each other in the streets, sit in the same rooms, go into the same shops without desiring each other's lives.

God alone knows what hatrod there still lurks in German hearts against us. In Cologne, far more than in Alx-lahapelle and other towns on our way. there seemed a sense of hostility to our presence, and today at least there was no hat doffing in the street when British officers passed, and thousands of men who obviously were German officers just out of uniform, looked stern and cold, but they behaved with dignity and sufficient courtesy as they have been called upon to do in proclamations posted on the walls and bearing the signatures of Ebert, Haase, Scheidemann, and other majority Socialists now ruling in Ger many.

"The ban has been removed," says one roclamation. "Germany is free and ready to take her place as a free people in the society of nations."

From inquiries I made it seems to me that Cologne has suffered severely from food shortage, and I have seen figures showing that infant mortality has increased to a very high figure since the beginning of the war, but here again, as in all German towns I visited, food is a question of money, and if the people uld afford to pay enormous prices they could live in luxury.

While the poor classes were closely rationed and had meager fare, in the Domhof hotel today there was a better lunch than one could get in any restaurant in England. It is this inequality of suffering that has caused bitterness and revolt, and soldiers, returning penniage after the privation of war, find 1 hard to get enough to eat, so some of them told me tonight.

THE LOCOMOBILE COMPANY OF AMERICA 2314 Market Street

The Farmer Receives More Than Five Thousand Dollars a Minute From Swift & Company

This amount is paid to the farmer for live stock, by Swift & Company alone, during the trading hours of every business day.

All this money is paid to the farmer through the open market in competition with large and small packers, shippers, speculators and dealers.

The farmer, feeder, or shipper receives every cent of this money ($300,000 an hour, nearly $2,000,000 a day, $11,500,000 a week) in cash, on the spot, as soon as the stock he has just sold is weighed up.

Some of the money paid to the farmer during a single day comes back to the company in a month from sale of products; much does not come back for sixty or ninety days or more. But the next day Swift & Company, to meet the demands made by its customers, must pay out another $2,000,000 or so, and at the present high price levels keeps over $250,000,000 continuously tied up in goods on the way to market and in bills owed to the company.

This gives an idea of the volume of the Swift & Company business, and the requirements of financing it. Only by doing a large business can this company turn live stock into meat and by-products at the lowest possible cost, prevent waste, operate refrigerator cars, distribute to retailers in all parts of the country-and be recompensed with a profit of only a fraction of a cent a pound-a profit too small to have any noticeable effect on the price of meat or live stock.
